SOCIETY

Miss Ethel B. McLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McLaughlin, 425 S. St. Joseph st., and Arthur R. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Carlson, 802 W. LaSalle av., were married Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. E. Brooks of Valparaiso read the ceremony at 12 o'clock beneath a canopy of carnations, ferns and smilax, in the presence of the immediate relatives. Miss Olga Tomlinson of Plymouth and Earl McLaughlin, a brother of the bride, were the attendants. The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue. A wedding dinner was served after the ceremony, places being laid for 20. A decorative scheme of pink and white was suggested throughout. Carnations, ferns with smilax were fashioned into a centerpiece for the table. Among the out of town guests were the bride's grandfather, Nelson McLaughlin, who is 89 years old. Mr. and Mrs. John Vogle, also grandparents of the bride, all of Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Col of Elkhart. Mr. and Mrs. Carlson left during the afternoon by automobile for Niles and from there will go to Detroit, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. Upon their return they will be at home at 425 S. St. Joseph st.

Announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Ida Archambault, 905 W. LaSalle av., and J. R. Cullen of Chicago, which is to take place some time in October.

Miss Irene Martin, whose marriage to Horace B. Dakin will take place soon, was complimented with a shower Monday evening given by St. Mary's guild of St. James' Episcopal church. The affair was in the nature of a surprise shower and was given at the home of Bishop White on W. Colfax av. At the close of an informal evening spent with music and dancing, a luncheon was served.

Miss Ada Campbell and Miss Vera Campbell, both brides to be, were guests of honor at a thimble given Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl D. Britton, 1011 E. Madison st., by members of the Worth White circle of the First Methodist church. The afternoon was spent in a social manner with needlework and a luncheon marked the close. Garden flowers were arranged into a centerpiece for the luncheon table. Miss Ada Hillier, 1104 S. Michigan st., will give an informal luncheon Saturday as a courtesy to Miss Ada Campbell.

Mrs. C. W. Caldwell, 118 W. Marion st., entertained members of the Ayudadora circles Tuesday afternoon. During the business meeting election of officers took place resulting as follows: Mrs. Gabriel R. Summers, president; Mrs. W. M. Weld, vice president; Mrs. F. L. Chilcote, secretary; Mrs. L. C. Whitcomb, assistant secretary; Mrs. John G. Veagley, treasurer; Mrs. F. M. Caldwell, assistant treasurer. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon. The members will give a banquet next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. F. Jackson, Portage rd., when the husbands will be guests. Mrs. Anna E. Forster, 215 N. Lafayette st., will be hostess at the regular meeting of the circle, Oct. 12.

A meeting of the nature study department of the Progressive club was held Tuesday afternoon at the clubrooms. Miss Florence Peck gave a very entertaining talk on "How to Study Birds," giving a resume of the summer observations with special references to the thrushes, which were the subject for the day. This Leona Turner is chairman of the department and Miss Peck was chosen to act as secretary during the year. Another meeting will be held in two weeks.

The Pythian Sisters were entertained with a thimble Tuesday afternoon in the K. of P. hall with an attendance of 125 members and friends. The following program in charge of Mrs. J. F. Kline was given: Pianos solo by Mrs. Etta Sperry; violin solo, Miss Esther Fulton, accompanied on the piano by Miss Bernice Wayne; vocal solo by Miss Eldora Zeas, accompanied by Miss Inez Zilke and Miss Fulton on the piano and violin; recitation by Miss Laura Hager; vocal solo, Mrs. John Whitner, accompanied by Miss Zilke; piano solo, Miss Ruth Kuss; vocal solo, Miss Mable Hager, accompanied by Miss Mable Ahrons. The prize in a guest contest was awarded to Mrs. Lillian LaFayette. Refreshments were enjoyed after the program. Plans were made for a thimble to be given some time in October.

Mrs. George S. Currie entertained members of her 500 club on Tuesday afternoon at her home, 728 W. Wayne st. The favors at cards were taken by Mrs. Henry Probst, Mrs. Goheen and Mrs. Scott. Daily refreshments were served by the hostess during the social time. The next meeting will be Oct. 12 with Mrs. Charles B. Bloom, Taylor ct.

The first regular meeting of the Business Women's Bible class was held last evening at the Y. W. C. A. Supper was served at 8:15 o'clock followed by the lesson for the evening from the book of Joshua led by Mrs. E. H. Harris. An informal reception will probably be given on Friday.

Magical Effect of New Face Peeler

To maintain a clear, white, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercuric wash, which you can get at any drug store. Just apply the wash at night as you would cold cream. In the morning wash off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. It causes the old worn-out skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underlain now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality, you wonder why you've not heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

Equally magical in its action is a simple wrinkle-removing lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salicylate in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in this for two or three minutes immediately affects every line and furrow and improves facial contour wonderfully.

Trim Coat For Outing

By La Raconteuse.

Thoroughly protected for the ride, even though it be a long and stormy one, is mummy who wears this most comfortable coat. Her frock is entirely covered from dust or rain and the convertible collar can be buttoned snugly around the throat or thrown open loosely. Big pockets are provided too, and a plain, unassuming belt holds in the extra fullness about the waist. The plaid Tam O'Shanter is of knitted silk and besides being most fetching, cleverly holds in the gray ends of hair.

evening at the Y. W. for Miss Margaret Van Fleet, who was the first teacher of the Business Women's Bible class after its organization. The next meeting of the class will be Tuesday, Oct. 5.

The Rev. and Mrs. Howard Clifford were given a farewell reception Tuesday evening in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church by members of the Ladies' Aid society. Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Lippincott received with Rev. and Mrs. Clifford more than 150 guests between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock. Light refreshments were served during the evening. A generous purse was presented Rev. Clifford by members of the different departments of the church. He will leave with his family Thursday to take up the pastorate of the new Presbyterian church at Flint, Mich.

The women members of the First M. E. church parish will give a reception Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the parsonage of the church for the women who are in the city attending the annual conference.

Miss Pearl Klopfer, 1316 S. Miami st., was hostess last evening to the members of the Qui Vive club at the monthly meeting. After the business meeting the time was spent socially with refreshments. A number of victrola selections were enjoyed. The members planned a Halloween party for Oct. 23 to be held at the home of Miss Erma Helmen at Meadowbrook farm. The affair will be in the nature of a guest party and all members are invited to bring a dish. While the guests will wear all over aprons.

The meeting of the Auten W. R. C. No. 14 was held in the old court house Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock with a good attendance of members. The time was spent in transacting the routine business of the organization.

Mrs. M. Ward, 226 College st., was hostess to members of the Silver Pleasure club Tuesday. The afternoon was spent socially with refreshments. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Richard Dugdale, 209 E. Navarre st.

The Young People's Alliance of the First Evangelical church was pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening at the parsonage, 302 W. Monroe st. More than 100 guests were present. The evening was spent socially with music and a short program, which consisted of plantation songs, readings and a "20th century surgical operation" was given. The newly organized orchestra under the direction of Prof. George J. Long, rendered several selections. A delicious supper was served toward the close of the evening's entertainment by the committee in charge.

Making Use of The Closet Door

Ingenious Woman Makes Chintz Bag to Hold Odds and Ends.

On a summer day in New England a lady was sitting on the hotel porch stitching away industriously. And her lap was filled with rolls and wads of chintz. Surrounding her on the floor could be seen scissors and tape measure, multitudinous spools of cotton, odd bits of tape, flaps of various sizes—and boards.

The boarders wondered what on earth she was doing, and they had gathered around to see. The boarders were of both sexes. Curiosity had been thoroughly aroused. For the lady had been chanting a peculiar incantation all morning. "Oversees, duster, whisk, blacking, buttons!" And then the refrain, "What have I done with the whisk flap?" A boarder in passing has heard, and hastened to tell a boarderess that another boarderess, who was on the porch, had evidently gone crazy. The boarderess had hastened to find out and had held conversation with the lady. "She hasn't gone yet," she told the boarder "she's still there sewing. She says it's for her closet door."

News travels quickly in a summer resort, and the boarders assembled thickly from all directions. "Shoes, umbrella, duster," chanted the lady on the porch. And, "does anyone see the button bag?" she queried mildly, as the boarders burst as one man upon her view. She had not noticed before that the congregation had assembled. An outstretched hand dangled a bag somewhat tentatively with withdrawn haste. "That," said the lady, "is a hot water bag. And she fished up a puckered flap from behind her chair and proceeded to sew it on her lapful of chintz.

"I should love to know what you're making," said a young thing in blue. "Why," said the lady, "it's a catch-all for my closet door. It's for all those things you never know where to find. I always lose my umbrella and overshoes, and if I keep them in pockets on my closet door, I'll always know where to look. I'm making pockets for all my things," she finished gaily, as she smiled on the curious group.

"Perhaps you will elucidate," suggested a college professor in gray and a broad accent. "I am profoundly ignorant in the matter of house furnishing, and—" But the lady smiled again. "I'm afraid I've lost my blacking—I brought it down to get the size. To ascertain the dimension," she gaily explained to the man in gray.

But the blacking was duly found—she had tucked it into the toe of an overshoe for safekeeping. And then she unrolled the lady's chintz and exhibited a large, straight length of material quite covered with pockets of various sizes.

"It's quite simple," she said. "You first measure your closet door, so as not to cut your piece of chintz too large, and after you have cut it, you run a casing top and bottom, just like the hem of a window shade. And you run the same sort of a stick in your casing, too. That prevents crinkling, you see. And then you decide on what you want to make your pockets for, and you cut them the proper size and baste them on. You see, I have a long narrow pocket for my umbrella. And then up at the top I have a pocket with a hole in the bottom for my whisk; and next to that I have a pocket for my hat brush. And then comes the pocket for the hot water bag. And this bag is for buttons. You see, I have made it quite full, with a drawstring, so that I can pull the bag out almost flat when I want to hunt the buttons I need. And then I've made two little envelope bags. One is for rubber bands and I haven't decided what I shall keep in the other yet.

"On either side of the paper-and-string bag I have two middle-sized pockets, one for a duster and one for my overshoes. But I haven't you to notice how I have made the paper bag. It is cut pointed at the top, and can either be tied up to the foundation by means of a tape sewed on it and on the corner of the bag, or it may be buttoned. And there is this three-inch strip set in for thickness, so that when the bag is undone at the top it pulls way out, and I have sufficient room to examine the contents. On the outside of the bag I have fastened this pocket for string. This lower row of pockets is for shoes. And outside I have," she glanced at the man in gray, "adjusted receptacles for shoe brush, blacking brush and blacking. You see," she ended proudly, "it's quite complete."

The young thing in blue determined to make four of them for Christmas presents. But the college professor, as he strolled away, decided he would approach the lady privately at some future time and ascertain upon what terms she would make a flap for him. "For my favorite volumes," he murmured gently.
